Sea Otter Reintroduction on the Pacific Coast

Questions and Answers

I've started hearing talk in the news lately about possible sea otter reintroductions. What's this all about?

A couple of years ago an Oregon based non-profit organization, the Elakha Alliance, started to discuss the possibility of restoring sea otters to the Oregon coast. Their organization has been working on a study assessing the potential feasibility of reintroducing sea otters in Oregon, which was released for public review in late August 2021.

More recently, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service was separately tasked by the U.S. Congress with taking a look at the feasibility and cost of reintroducing sea otters on the Pacific coast of the contiguous United States. This directive stems from language that was included in the Consolidated Appropriations Act for 2021, passed on December 27, 2020. This Congressional directive requires the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to present a report back to Congress within one year of enactment, by the end of 2021. The scope of this directive expands beyond the Oregon Coast, to include the coasts of California and Washington as well.

Why would we need to reintroduce sea otters?

Sea otters once inhabited the nearshore marine environment of the entire Pacific rim, from Baja California Mexico to the islands of Japan. This includes the entire Pacific coast, although sea otters were likely not continuously distributed, and indications are that populations were limited to areas of suitable habitat. Hunting of sea otters for the fur trade resulted in the near extinction of the species by the late 1800s/early 1900s. By the time sea otters were protected under the International Fur Seal Treaty in 1911, likely fewer than 2,000 animals remained, most of these in isolated pockets in remote areas of Alaska. The only sea otters that survived on the contiguous Pacific coast of the U.S. were in one small group off the California coast, near Big Sur.

Thanks to conservation efforts, including reintroductions in Southeast Alaska, British Columbia, Washington, and Oregon in the late 1960s and early 1970s, today sea otters have begun to recover in many areas of their historical range. However, the Oregon reintroduction failed for unknown reasons, although sea otters persisted for at least 10 years and even produced pups. In California, range expansion of the southern sea otter has been slow, and range expansion to the north and south of the central California range appears to be limited by shark bite mortality. As a result, sea otters remain absent from northern California across the entire coast of Oregon to central Washington (about 930 mi [1,500 km]) and from Southern California to central Baja California, Mexico (500 mi [800 km]).

Why consider the reintroduction of sea otters?

The Congressional mandate to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service points to the sea otter's "critical ecological role in the marine environment as a keystone species that significantly affects the structure and function of the surrounding ecosystem."

The sea otter is considered a classic example of a keystone species because of its role as a predator at the top of multiple "trophic cascades" that result in the creation and maintenance of healthy kelp forests and seagrass beds. A "keystone" species is a species that has an effect on its environment disproportionate to its abundance—in other words, the presence of only a few individuals can have a big impact.

The sea otter functions as a keystone species in the environment through its role as a top predator in the nearshore marine ecosystem. Sea urchins are a favorite food of the sea otter if they are locally abundant. By preying on sea urchins, a voracious consumer of kelp, sea otters keep urchin populations in check, which allows kelp forests to thrive. Healthy kelp forests in turn support greater species diversity (rockfishes are one example) and are highly efficient at sequestering carbon, which helps reduce ocean warming and acidification.

Bringing back sea otters could result in benefits to ecosystem services and local ecotourism, and also have cultural significance for coastal native peoples. But not everyone may see the potential reintroduction of sea otters in a positive light. Sea otters could have negative impacts on some commercial and recreational shellfish fisheries.

Carefully laying out all of the potential costs and benefits for consideration will be an important component of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's reintroduction assessment and report back to Congress.

When would reintroductions start?

There is no active proposal to reintroduce sea otters to the Pacific coast—it is just a concept that is under consideration and up for discussion. Our report back to Congress will focus on summarizing known information and stakeholder perspectives and identifying key data gaps.

In the future, should there be a move to formally propose the reintroduction of sea otters, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service would initiate a public review process under the National Environmental Policy Act; this process would include opportunities for the public to review and comment prior to any final Record of Decision.

So what's next?

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service staff are working on developing the key components for a preliminary assessment of the feasibility of reintroduction for our report to Congress following the Guidelines for Reintroductions and Other Conservation Translocations, developed by the IUCN's Species Survival Commission (IUCN is the International Union for the Conservation of Nature, a global organization).

We are currently working to convene discussions and solicit feedback from stakeholder groups, scientists, and the public on the possible reintroduction of sea otters to the Pacific coast to ensure that we are able to capture the full range of viewpoints in our report back to Congress.

Our report will include the consideration of reintroduction feasibility from an ecological standpoint as well as from a socioeconomic perspective. The assessment will be limited to a fact-based report on the feasibility of reintroduction; we will not be making any recommendation as to whether reintroduction should take place.

Dear Jessica:

The Board of Commissioners would like to thank you for all of your generous product donations over the last few years for our annual Association of Oregon Counties' "Taste of Oregon" event.

The Association of Oregon Counties holds this conference every fall and invites each participating county to contribute samples of products that are made locally to serve at the tasting event. Last year, due to COVID-19, the event was cancelled. This year, the event will be held again but with additional guidelines that require all donated products to be prepackaged. It would be a pleasure to serve and promote your products again this year if you are able to donate any items that are prepackaged, or sample sized that we could share.

If you are able to donate again this year, we would be very appreciative, but also understand this last year has been a difficult time for local businesses. Executive Assistant, Isabel Gilda will follow up with you on November 10th or you can contact her directly at 503-842-3431. To show our support for local businesses, we could also consider purchasing prepackaged samples from you to share at the event.

It would be a pleasure to serve your products again this year and help to spread the name of the Blue Heron French Cheese Company throughout Oregon and beyond. Thank you for your generosity and support of Tillamook County.

Sincerely,

Dear Jeff & Mary:

As you know the Association of Oregon Counties holds an annual conference in the fall and all the attending counties contribute samples of their products that are made locally to serve at "The Taste of Oregon" event. We have always proudly served your donated products at this event and would appreciate the opportunity to be able to do so again this year.

Last year, due to COVID-19, the tasting event was cancelled. This year, the event will be held again but with additional guidelines that require all donated products to be prepackaged. It would be a pleasure to serve and promote your products again this year if you are able to donate any items that are individually prepackaged, or sample sized that we could share.

If you are able to donate again this year, we would be very appreciative, but also understand this last year has been a difficult time for local businesses. Executive Assistant, Isabel Gilda will follow up with you or you can contact her directly at 503-842-3431.

Dear Mr. Criteser:

As we begin to prepare for the Association of Oregon Counties' annual conference this year we would like to let you know that we always appreciate the privilege of serving and promoting Tillamook Cheese at the "Taste of Oregon" event. At this conference all the participating counties in Oregon are given a table to show off the best quality products their county has to offer. There is friendly rivalry about who has the best products. Every year we have those who attend the event tell us Tillamook Cheese is simply the best.

Last year, due to COVID-19, the tasting event was cancelled. This year, the event will be held again with additional guidelines that require all donated products to be prepackaged. It would be a pleasure to serve and promote your products again this year if you are able to donate any items that are prepackaged, or sample sized that we could share.

If you are able to donate again this year, we would be very appreciative, but also understand this last year has been a difficult time for local businesses. Executive Assistant, Isabel Gilda will follow up with you on November 10 or you can contact her directly at 503-842-3431. To show our support for local businesses, we could also consider purchasing prepackaged samples from you to share at the event.

Thank you again for your consideration and continued support of Tillamook County.

Sincerely,

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS FOR TILLAMOOK COUNTY, OREGON

Dear Ken:

As you know the Association of Oregon Counties holds a conference every fall and the participating counties contribute samples of products that are made locally to serve at "The Taste of Oregon" event. We have proudly served your jerky at this tasting event for several years and we would be delighted to have the opportunity to promote your products again this year.

Last year, due to COVID-19, the tasting event was cancelled. This year, the event will be held again but with additional guidelines that require all donated products to be prepackaged. It would be a pleasure to serve and promote your products again this year if you are able to donate any items that are individually prepackaged, or sample sized that we could share.

If you are able to donate again this year, we would be very appreciative, but also understand this last year has been a difficult time for local businesses. Executive Assistant, Isabel Gilda will follow up with you November 10 or you can contact her directly at 503-842-3431. To show our support for local businesses, we could also consider purchasing prepackaged samples from you to share at the event.

Thank you again for your generosity and continued support of Tillamook County. It is a pleasure to share your delicious jerky and promote your products throughout Oregon and beyond.

Sincerely,

Since you are so adamantly in favor of being vaccinated against COVID-19 even though none of the vaccines have been through stage 3 clinical trials, can you assure the population that absolutely no harm will come to them in the future from these experimental vaccines? If harm does come to people that got vaccinated because you, our county commissioners told them to do so, are you prepared to be held accountable?

Tillamook County Commissioners,

Still waiting on the required publicly published peer reviewed documented scientific clinical studies commissioners are using to base their decisions and covid reports on. Is the reason commissioners can't produce the studies because they don't exist? Commissioners also are required to provide, and should have readily available the rules, policies, procedures, code of conduct, and bylaws of the Board of County Commissioners, but to date have not produced those either. It really is beyond comprehension that elect officials and the appointed county employees have not educated and prepared themselves for the position they swore to uphold.

Again, commissioners are telling citizens to get "vaccinated" with an experimental gene altering mRNA unapproved injectable unknown concoction by manufacturers that have ZERO liability if someone is injured or dies. Are commissioners prepared for the responsibility of injuries or fatalities of citizens taking the "the vaccine" because they were advised by the county commissioners?

Commissioners must stop participating along with the state and federal propaganda, and stop all the doom and gloom, commissioners are constantly pushing fear. The covid report by Ed sounds like a Monday rundown of the latest sporting events over the weekend. It's mind boggling how many categories there are, stats on top of stats, on top of even more stats. It really is ridiculous, citizens are seeing right through it. How about reporting on the real scientific data that says covid has a survival rate of over 99%. How about the real science that shows covid is very similar to the flu? How about reporting on safe and effective treatments? How about truth for a change instead of manipulated data? How about real scientific data from doctors and scientist who take their Hippocratic Oath seriously, instead of relying on corrupt data provided by corrupt non-government agencies and organizations like the CDC owned by global elitist making billions off their patented drugs paid for by American taxpayers?

Commissioners claim they are the health authority of the county. Where exactly is this written? Where is the official adopted voted record that shows this claim? The fact is, We The People are the authority of our bodies. We will choose how to, and when to lawfully medically care for ourselves.

Regarding Mary Faith Bell's comments during the 11/2/21 update about anxiety, anger and consternation of citizens. That's what happens when unalienable God given rights of free citizens have their freedoms, liberties and their pursuit of happiness stomped on and disrespected. Commissioners really need to re-learn their American history. How about starting with 1775-1777, then go 1862-1871, then 1932-1945? How is it that some Americans have not learned from these extremely important lessons from the past?

The real problem is commissioners have absolutely no understanding of the Constitution even though they swore to uphold it. It's completely evident commissioners have absolutely no interest in serving the Constitution. Why would any elected official go to such extreme lengths to violate and abuse their position of office? They are clearly ill equipped to govern in any circumstances because they refuse to educate and dedicate themselves to serve the Constitution. It's very simple, there are 2 choices, you either believe in the Constitution that you swore to uphold, or you don't. It's apparent commissioners don't believe in the Constitution. Commissioners have been invited in the past to learn about the Constitution, to participate with citizens in a Constitution training but have ignored every invitation.

The Constitution is not about politics, party lines, or partisanship. The Constitution is simply making a statement of unalienable God given rights each and every American is born with. The Constitution is about serving We The People and preserving freedom and liberties. Commissioners completely ignore or do not understand that We The People have the power and authority to govern from the smallest of towns to largest of cities, at the state and federal level. Commissioners completely ignore or do not understand that elected officials take their orders from We The People, it's not the other way around, We The People will not be ruled over.

Our founding fathers knew exactly what they were designing in the creation of the Constitution through their experiences of oppression from the British. Sadly through recent decades, elected officials have been corrupted with the love of money and power crippling the greatest nation on earth to place where America is today. Money really is the root of all evil. Once elected officials learn and understand their limited powers and authority, and can serve without being corrupt, then America will be restored to her former glory.

If commissioners would educate themselves in the Constitution, the Nuremberg Code, and the crimes against humanity that are being uncovered, then truly govern within their limited power and authority invested in them by the Constitution, they will see Tillamook County also restored back to it's rural hometown charm.
